The highly anticipated India International Jewellery Show (IIJS) Premiere 2023 is set to be the biggest and most remarkable event yet.

The preparations for IIJS Premiere 2023 have been nothing short of extraordinary. In the first phase alone, GJEPC, the show organiser, received over 30,000 visitor registrations, indicating the immense enthusiasm and anticipation surrounding IIJS 2023. One of the notable new initiatives introduced is the Prime Visitor Registration, designed specifically for large companies. This program allows companies to select the number of people attending each show and make changes as needed. Already, 200 companies and 4,000 visitors have registered through this program, highlighting the value they see in the offerings of IIJS Premiere.

Cover Story

The Prime tier has also been offered to exhibitors who have participated in all three shows, garnering a tremendous response. Over 5,000 room nights have already been booked, with almost all hotels already sold out. Efforts are underway to add more accommodations to meet the high demand, ensuring that attendees have a comfortable and enjoyable experience during the show.

Organising a dual-venue show presented its own set of challenges. Initially, some exhibitors were sceptical about participating in a dual-venue event. To address this concern, the organisers invested a considerable amount of effort into convincing them of the benefits and demonstrating their readiness to make the show work seamlessly. The result has been overwhelmingly positive, with exhibitors of 3,100 out of 3,200 booths fully satisfied. For the remaining 100 exhibitors who desired the NESCO venue but faced space limitations, alternative options were provided to ensure their needs were met. Transportation between the two venues has been made convenient with a seamless shuttle service operating every 10 minutes, allowing attendees to easily switch between venues.

The success of IIJS Premiere 2023 is expected to surpass the previous year's show, which had generated ₹ 50,000 crore (~$6 billion) of business. The revenue target for the IIJS platform in 2023 is set at an impressive ₹ 1 lakh crore (~$12.19 billion). This target will be achieved through the collective contribution of all three shows: IIJS Premiere, IIJS Signature, and IIJS Tritiya. GJEPC anticipates ₹ 60,000 crores (~$7.3 billion) from IIJS Premiere, ₹ 30,000 crores (~$3.65 billion) from IIJS Signature, and ₹ 12,000-15,000 crores (~$1.4-1.8 billion) from IIJS Tritiya. IIJS aims to become the ultimate platform for conducting business in the jewellery industry, providing comprehensive value-added services, seminars, and digital platforms to enhance business efficiency and meet the needs of its members throughout the year.

The attendance for IIJS Pre ered by "green" electricity generated from renewable resources. To reduce paper waste, all badges will be fully digital and downloadable through the IIJS App. Digital visiting cards, which can be saved to mobile devices by scanning a QR code, will also be introduced, promoting digital safety and further reducing paper waste. Looking ahead, the GJEPC's long-term vision for IIJS is to make it the ultimate hub where all jewellery business transactions take place. IIJS aims to establish itself as the go-to platform for orders, new customer acquisitions, and overall business growth. The Council plans to introduce a range of value-added services and initiatives that cater to the needs of its members, making IIJS the epicentre of business activity throughout the year.

Expanding their reach domestically and internationally is also a key focus, and IIJS is attracting a record number of international visitors and delegations this year. Additionally, initiatives like "40 Under 40" will identify and recognise emerging faces in the industry, engaging them throughout the year and shaping the future of the jewellery industry. The networking evening, the largest of its kind hosted by IIJS, will bring together 5,000 industry professionals and honour industry legends who have made significant contributions to the trade.

With its exceptional preparations, new initiatives, and commitment to sustainability, IIJS Premiere 2023 promises to be a spectacular showcase of innovation and success. GJEPC is dedicated to creating an atmosphere of excitement and productivity for everyone involved, and its efforts are set to make this event a resounding triumph!

GJEPC Survey

Survey Figures Jewellery Trends To Watch Out For

With an aim to help jewellery manufacturers offer better inventory for their buyers at IIJS Premiere 2023, leading jewellery influencer PREETA AGARWAL, conducted a Jewellery Preferences Survey in collaboration with GJEPC. The survey was divided into six sections, and here are the findings that emerged.

Gold and silver earrings. By Azza Fahmy

Multi coloured bracelet by Sanskriti.

METALS & MATERIALS

- Out of all the metal choices, the maximum number of people still lean towards 18-karat gold.
- With the increase in gold prices, the consumer is now fine with 14-karat as base metal, if the design was attractive.
- In metal combinations, shades of yellow, white & rose gold have been popular. However, many prefer a blend of gold and silver, which could be due to the increasing gold prices and the versatility of silver.
- When asked about the popularity of diamonds or gemstones, the consumer picked design over gem choices. A whopping 60% of the consumers said they were okay with any combination of diamonds and gemstones, as long as the design was unique!
- Very few people opted for Platinum and Titanium jewellery.
- Non-precious materials like wood, feathers, beads, glass, thread, leather and more in fine jewellery does not have much acceptance in India.

OCCASION WEAR

- Wearing jewellery on a daily basis is on a steep rise and the biggest trends for pret wear are stacks of bracelets and rings and layered necklaces.
- Ear stacks - a stacking trend that was very famous in India till a few years ago, has done a global round and is back in fashion here.

Bridal jewellery category:

- Brides are opting for multiple-layered necklaces for multi utility.
- Apart from shopping for bridal jewellery, women are buying smaller pieces so that jewellery can be worn and flaunted on various occasions.
- Gone are the days of chunky earrings - women now want

Diamond bracelet stacks by Spectrum

Platinum Engagement Rings by Jewelex

lightweight pieces.

- Collection campaigns by famous fashion designers like Sabyasachi, Manish Malhotra have raised the bridal style quotient and play a big role in aspirational shopping.
- Other factors that are influencing the spurt in occasion wear jewellery are – jewellery brand campaigns, influencer collaborations, celebrity endorsements and international red-carpet events like Cannes Film Festival, Oscars, Met Gala, etc.

PRODUCT CATEGORY

- Ring and bracelet stacks are selling the most these days.
- Multiple varieties of earrings are trending – from small ear studs and drop earrings for everyday wear to jhumkis and hoops for dressier occasions. In vogue are single earring, asymmetric earrings and stacks of earrings.
- Complicated mechanisms for are not appreciated in modular jewellery.

- Diamond jewellery and bridal jadau jewellery are forever in demand.
- Two emerging categories are pret wear in the jadau segment and contemporary gold jewellery.

DESIGN & TECHNIQUES

- While florals and classic jewellery have always been popular, post pandemic, meaningful jewellery with religious symbols, lucky numbers, prayers, etc., are preferred by consumers.
- In terms of finishing techniques, combination of matte & high polish gold is in, along with antique gold finishes. Hints of colour by way of enamelling or ceramic techniques are offering a whole new range of pastels to vivid pop shades.
- Lightweight jewellery with and more spread-out designs is seen as value for money since gold rates are steep.

DIAMONDS & GEMSTONES

- Solitaires or diamonds in cluster settings still rule the category of engagement rings. Rubies and emeralds are chosen by those who desire colourful engagement ring. But a surprise entry is the single polki-jadau engagement ring that is trending well.
- As per the survey, a massive 60% of consumers have heard about Lab Grown Diamonds but they don't know much about it. Actual buyers are just about 10%, but there is a lot of curiosity around it.

- Rubies, emeralds, sapphires, and pearls are crowd-favourites. However, tanzanite, rubellite, tourmalines, amethysts and garnets as well as pastel gemstones like aquamarines, rock crystal, rose quartz, kunzite and morganites have a high acceptance among consumers as compared to 5 years ago.
- If we break down jewellery in colour palettes, then reds, blues, greens, and pinks have been strong. But all-white and all-gold jewellery has also received a lot of likes along with multi-coloured designs.
